

Courtesy: Roderick J. Fraser, Jr., Boston Fire Commissioner

In front of 100 Summer Street, looking toward Chauncy Street.

Summer Street looking toward Washington Street.

Ruins of the Trinity Church, Summer Street, corner of Hawley Street.

A man, believed to be Clark Plympton, in front of his store on Summer Street, adjacent to Trinity Church.

Devonshire Street, from near Milk Street.

The Old South Block, Milk Street.

Washington Street, from near Franklin Street.

Washington Street, looking north.

Granite walls in ruins on Pearl Street.

High Street, looking from Summer Street.

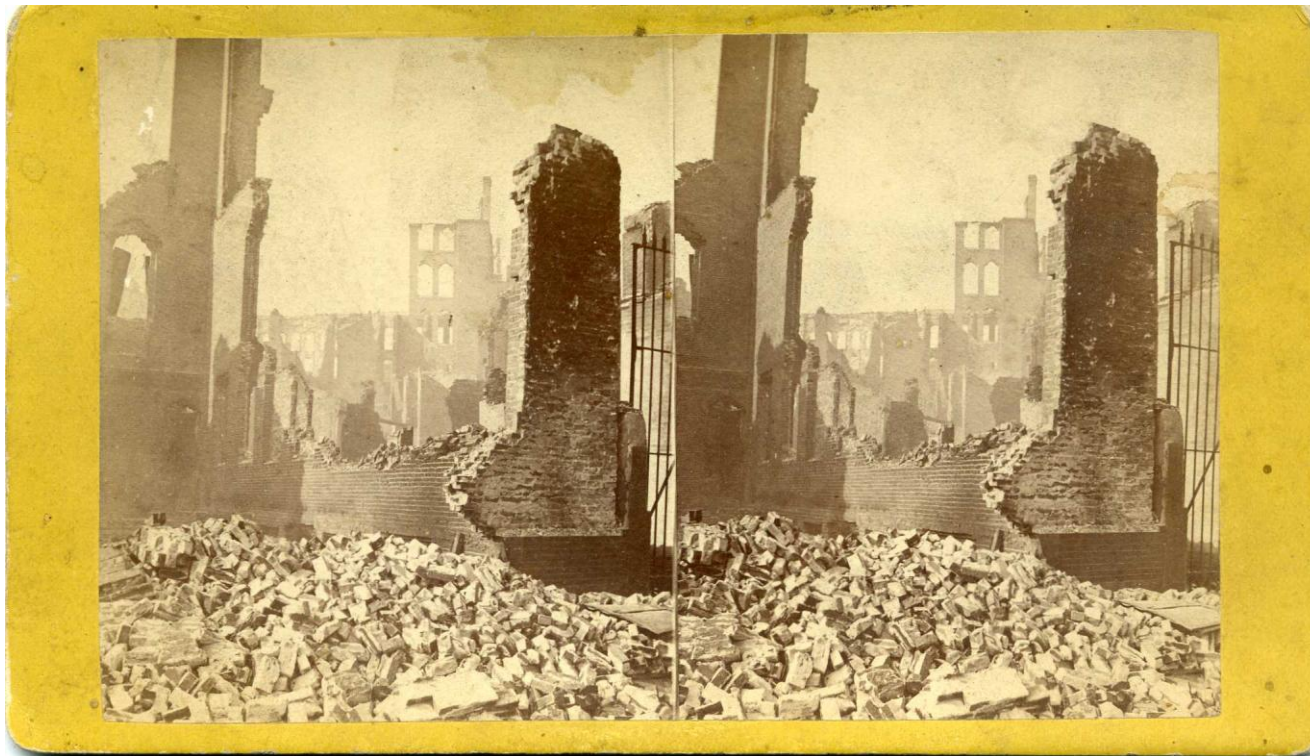

Ruins of the Macullar, Williams & Parker building at 194 Washington Street, between Franklin & Summer Streets.

Panorama from C. F. Hovey & Co. Summer St.

General photograph of the ruins.

General photograph of the ruins.

